

A Day In The Life Of A Product Owner

Including Typical Stakeholders

1

Attend Daily Scrum Meeting

- Understand yesterday's progress
- Today's goals
- How to overcome any expected impediments

2

Have a chat with Developers

- Get them clear on the project features they are working on 3

Discuss with SM

- Have a discussion with SM about an impediment the visual designers encountered
- Details of how it was solved

4

Start prioritizing backlog items

1

2

3

- Depending on the value they bring to the company

5

Discuss the budget with stakeholders

- Discuss the budget for a future product release

6

Meet with the business owners, discuss the status of a new product release

- Discuss the status of a new product release

7

Discuss with the SM how best to include distant stakeholders

- Attend release performance testing meeting
- Discuss how best to include distant stakeholders in retrospective reviews

8

Communicate with an absent stakeholder

- Have a voice call with a stakeholder who could not make it for the finance meeting

9

Go over the findings from retrospective with SM

● Go over the findings from retrospective

10

Attend sprint review

- Attend sprint review on progress made with product during this sprint

- A general overview of how challenging the work of a product owner really is

- Use road mapping to show the direction the product development is planned to take (to be explained)

